

The Last Man On Earth

The crowd opens with Aunt Polly crossing the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom runs out dramatically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects carefully on Tom's mischief and how she has let him get away with too much.

Tom crosses town at supper time. During supper, Aunt Polly asks Tom about his adventures and what happened to his collar as well as how he got his hair. Tom's half brother, Huckleberry Finn, tries to distract himself to disguise his Tom goes out of the house following the streets of St. Petersburg. Tom and the new arrival eventually chase the swimmers all the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and decides to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Tom passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a "white alley," a kind of excuse. Tom almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his labor.

The Last Man On Earth

It's supposed to be funny, and for that reason they had to make the decision (and rightfully so) to dismiss the typical and obvious aspects of a last-man-on-earth scenario and just go straight for the comedy. If they didn't, none of the humor would land as quickly and easily as it does.
